

Black Panther

Black Panther is a strong man who can throw anybody to the ground. Black Panther has sharp teeth like werewolves that can TEAR someone apart. He also wears a mask when he travels so no one can spot who he is or what his identity is. He is like a supernatural ninja.

He wears a purple suit which glows in the dark like his mask. Black panther travels around the town to make sure everyone's safe like a ninja. The super ninja also has sharp claws like dinosaurs to scratch his enemies and has venom inside of them. You can also tell the enemies by the scratches on their faces.

My character is really kind and he's really helpful because he steals from the rich and gives it to the poor which is a good deed. The skills that he has is speed, agility, seeing in the dark. My person's backstory is that he had a really rough time when he was a kid and his family were really poor. So, he had nothing until he became a superstar and a hero that saves people. Black Panther works in an industry with other people like Iron Man and Thor and others. Even though he likes to work on his own he likes getting comfort from them.

What would you do if Black Panther found out that you have killed a poor person?
