

Itachi

Itachi is standing still in the dusk sky looking down upon the people of the village with his claw like hand out of his robe. He is known as the best sharingan user and his eyes can make people stunned. This skill, which is called a genjutsu, can make them think they are in a different dimension. It can also make him dodge attacks which he can copy and use against them.

Itachi can awaken his sharingan to a mangekyu which makes his abilities better and add two unique skills. One of them is called Amaterasu, which is a fire which only goes away once their opponents are dead. The second ability allows him to use the Susan: this half-human like statue, gives him a sword and a shield to attack and block. That's not all when it comes to his abilities: he has a cowboy gun which had a burning hot flamethrower. He has teleportation materials, but he doesn't just use them at will, only when necessary.

Itachi is a loving brother to his brother who is Sasuke Uchiha. He is very caring to his family and wouldn't let anyone hurt them and for the people who do, he will slaughter their existence.

He is a tall sort of skinny man with shiny black straight hair on each both sides of his head. He wears a silky robe looking jacket which covers his mouth and on it there are crimson red clouds and when his power turns on, his eyes turns bright red with a star symbol on it.
